 - IV. Last payment date

 - VI. If there is a pre-payment penalty
- *It is important to pay attention to the Payment Due Date and whether it is in the past, in the future, or blank, as this is important when selecting the next field for Payment Type.
4. Select the Payment Type
 - A. Scheduled Payment All Billed is used to pay everything that is billed and due, regardless of the due date. To clarify, this means it will include any past due amount as well as any future amount that has already been billed and will default the Payment Amount field to include the total amount due. This amount can still be manually updated to make a partial payment or add additional principal.
 - B. Past Due Payment plus additional Principal will pay anything that is past due, with the option to include additional Principal. The Payment Amount field will default to zero, and an amount must be manually entered.
 - C. Additional Principal should be used to submit additional Principal payment and can only be used if you are current on the loan. This means the Payment Due Date must either be blank, or a date in the future. The Payment Amount field will default to zero, and an amount must be manually entered. If the loan is past due and this payment type is submitted, it will be denied.
 5. Confirm/Enter the Payment Amount.
 6. Select if you will want this to be a “Recurring Payment”.
 - A. If recurring, you will need to select:
 - I. The frequency
